

There's nothing more important than the safety & security of home and family. That's why security systems are an important investment in peace of mind, especially in turbulent economic times. But, a security system is only as good as its weakest link, which is often the telephone line it communicates vital alarm reports out on, to get you help.

Don't let your security get hung up on some old phone

TIMES HAVE CHANGED:

- You don't need an old land line phone to have a security system.
- Doesn't matter if your telephone lines are cut, interrupted by storm or discontinued
- You just need to dependably communicate alarms to get you help in an emergency
- And, ensure long-term reliability using today's latest cellular networks

StarLink™

It's the most affordable, reliable, wireless alarm communications service your security company can offer

Traditional telephone land lines are quickly becoming a thing of the past. They're prone to storm outages. They can be cut by would-be thieves. Often they're just an avoidable expense, since most households are already using cell phones and internet-based VOIP/cable phone services. That's why today there's the StarLink Alarm Communicator, because your security is too important to risk.

StarLink simply takes the place of, or just backs-up, failed phone lines, to communicate your alarm system signals to the alarm monitoring station, so authorities are dispatched to your emergency quickly and effectively. Like a smart, advanced technology cellphone, StarLink works on today's most modern cellular LTE networks and transmits your security system's high priority signals wirelessly, digitally and dependably. And, it can work on any alarm system and virtually anywhere too.

Don't get hung up on old telephone lines & technicalities. Protect your family with the ultimate in advanced security ... insist on affordable StarLink by Napco, a leader in innovative security system technology for over three decades. Ask your security professional today.
